of the most exciting gallery and museum in the south east

Winner of The ArtFund Prize 2008
for museums and galleries

Designed by the architects of The London Eye, Marks Barfield, The Lightbox is a stunning building, opened in 2007 and winner of the Art Fund prize 2008.

The Lightbox is a registered charity and has to raise considerable funding to sustain the building and the extensive exhibition and education programme which make us so special and appealing to a wide range of audiences.

One of the ways in which The Lightbox raises income is through the support of the south east business community. The Corporate membership programme, which began in 2007 before opening, is a great way for your company to join in partnership with this dynamic organisation. The work of The Lightbox is directly aligned to CSR objectives and provides a wide package of benefits in return for your financial help.

Our Corporate partners become involved in many different ways including sponsoring exhibitions and help in kind. We provide for them a real opportunity to engage with the local community and we draw attention to their support through our extensive marketing activity.

We are a new, vibrant organisation and a major player in the south east cultural scene so please talk to us about getting involved.

“We have been supporters of The Lightbox as corporate members since before its opening. We believe The Lightbox is a great asset to Woking and it makes our company feel proud to be associated with this great success.”

Chris Lacey, Lacey Simmons
